TEXTBOOK

Public International Law

Contemporary Principles

2nd edition

Gideon Boas, Barrister at the Victorian Bar and La Trobe University, Australia

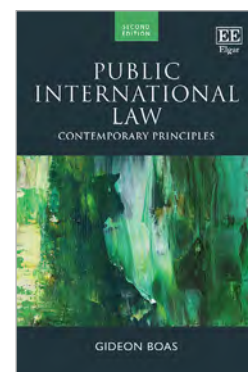

The second edition of this concise and well-loved textbook has been enhanced and developed while continuing to offer a fresh and accessible approach to international law, providing students with a uniquely holistic understanding of the field. Starting with the legal principles that underpin each strand of international law, and putting this into a real-life context, this textbook builds an understanding of how the international legal system operates and where it is heading. It guides readers through the theoretical foundations and development of international law norms, while also explaining clearly how the law works in practice.

Key Features:

- Further reading and discussion topics for each chapter
- A focus on legal theory and how it intersects with the practice of international law
- A new chapter providing an extensive and up-to-date explanation of the specialised areas of international law
- An integrated and contextual examination of the political and extra-legal dimensions of the international legal system
- The latest treaties, case studies and analysis, including critical current issues such as the COVID-19 pandemic and global health, and climate change

TEXTBOOK*Advanced Introduction to Law and Religion

Frank S. Ravitch, Michigan State University College of Law, US

'Advanced Introduction to Law and Religion is a major achievement in the US and comparative law and religion scholarship. Professor Ravitch crisply and insightfully synthesizes the history, major concepts, and current trends of the complicated world of church-state law in a single readable volume. Examining representative doctrinal areas, he places these in a truly global context by providing comparative analyses of alternate church-state models in Canada and the countries of the European Union as well as in Japan and other Asian countries too often neglected by Western scholars. The result is the perfect book for academics, graduate students, and others looking for sophisticated analysis beyond the introductory.'

– Frederick Mark Gedicks, Brigham Young University Law School

Key Features:

- Addresses the many issues surrounding religious exceptions to general laws
- Considers the extent of separation between government and religion, and the role of courts in deciding religious questions
- Looks at the ways in which law may govern discrimination by government or by private entities, based on religion or religious concerns
- Explores the multifaceted interactions between religion and law in many areas, including human rights; public schooling; health and property; tax exemptions; and clergy abuse

TEXTBOOK*Advanced Introduction to US Civil Liberties

Susan N. Herman, Brooklyn Law School and American Civil Liberties Union, US

'Professor Susan Herman has written a brilliant description of civil liberties in the United States. With remarkable clarity, she explains complicated legal concepts, tracing the history of civil rights in the United States and discussing important current issues. This book will be an invaluable resource for experts and non-experts alike, and will be enormously helpful to students, as well as lawyers, judges, and everyone interested in learning more about civil liberties.'

– Erwin Chemerinsky, University of California, Berkeley, US

Key Features:

- Discusses the historical development and current status of core civil liberties
- Examines the tension between libertarian and egalitarian views of civil liberties
- Promotes further understanding of the role of the US Supreme Court and other actors in setting levels of protection for civil liberties
- Provides an overview of common themes in development and interpretation of constitutionally protected civil liberties in multiple areas, including abortion

Artificial Intelligence in Finance

Challenges, Opportunities and Regulatory Developments

Edited by Nydia Remolina and Aurelio Gurrea-Martinez, Singapore Management University, Singapore

This book provides a comprehensive analysis of the primary challenges, opportunities and regulatory developments associated with the use of artificial intelligence (AI) in the financial sector. It will show that, while AI has the potential to promote a more inclusive and competitive financial system, the increasing use of AI may bring certain risks and regulatory challenges that need to be addressed by regulators and policymakers.

Ocean Carbon Dioxide Removal for Climate Mitigation

The Legal Framework

Edited by Romany M. Webb, Korey Silverman-Roati and Michael B. Gerrard, Columbia Law School, US

Examining the existing legal framework for ocean carbon dioxide removal, this forward-thinking book explores whether, when, where, and how future research and deployment can take place in the field. It provides a detailed exploration of how the ocean could be used to remove and store carbon dioxide from the atmosphere, describing five commonly discussed ocean CDR techniques—rock-based ocean alkalinity enhancement (OAE), electrochemical OAE, ocean fertilization, artificial upwelling and downwelling, and seaweed cultivation—and exploring the legal issues that different techniques could raise.

Legal Advisers in International Organizations

Edited by Jan Wouters, KU Leuven, the Netherlands

'A must-have reference source for truly understanding the challenges and rewards of functioning as a lawyer in an intergovernmental international organization. Drawing on the experiences of lawyers functioning in diverse global and regional organizations, ranging from the UN/WHO/WB to the EU/OSCE and NATO, the reader gains a remarkable sense of how a lawyer's skills can be used in the context of a particular organization. The stresses and strains of advocating for and achieving consistency, predictability, clarity and precision – a lawyer's "bread and butter" – within the framework of varied international organizations present fascinating lessons for those interested in learning how the "rule of law" is pursued and maintained in these important organizations.'

TEXTBOOK*EU Competition Law

Cases, Texts and Context

2nd edition

Eleanor M. Fox, New York University, School of Law, US and Damien Gerard, College of Europe and Université catholique de Louvain and Belgian Competition Authority

'European competition consists of a few provisions that, despite their abstract nature, deeply affect the economy and society as a whole. In the second edition of EU Competition Law, Eleanor Fox and Damien Gerard brilliantly illustrate this impact, not only by presenting the most striking European cases in a comparative law perspective that refers to their main US counterparts, but also by distilling from these cases the essential questions and issues, which students, scholars and practitioners must address when they study or apply EU competition law.'

– Marc van der Woude, President of the EU General Court, Luxembourg

Among key features, the book:

- integrates law, economics and policies, providing a holistic sense of competition law and its place in the EU system
- is unusually concise, given its coverage, while explaining the critical nuances of cases by means of notes and questions
- provides a unique comparative perspective by including excerpts of landmark US antitrust cases and numerous other comparative references.

Supplementary Protection Certificates for Medicinal Products

Georgia A. Roussou, PPD Inc. and Max Planck Institute for Innovation and Competition, Munich, Germany

'The proposal for the SPC system (rather than simple patent term extension) referred to "the simplicity of the system" and called what was proposed "balanced simple transparent." None of that proved true and, in my opinion at least, was obviously wrong at the time. Dr Roussou traces its complex history with battles between research based and generic pharma brilliantly. She valiantly attempts the impossible task of not just describing but also explaining the tortured reasoning of the CJEU on a flood of cases – which to some, me included, suggests the Court has no proper understanding of patent law (what is a "protected product") nor regulatory law (very narrow and precise). She tackles the fuzzy interaction with competition law, the policy implications for pharma research, what's to be done about the UPC and SPCs and where the system should go next. Not everyone will agree with her (I don't on a number of points), but all will agree she has produced a valuable and provocative book.'

Edited by Fiana Gantheret, Expert and Consultant in International Justice and Human Rights, Founder and Director of Creating Rights, Nolwenn Guibert, Senior Legal Officer at an international organization, Geneva, Switzerland and Sofia Stolk, T.M.C. Asser Instituut, The Hague, the Netherlands

This timely book builds bridges between the notions of art and aesthetics, human rights, universality, and dignity. It explores a world in which art and justice enter a discussion to answer questions such as: can art translate the human experience? How does humanity link individuality and community building? How do human beings define and look for their identity? The fields of human rights and art are brought together in order to open the discussion.

The Logic of Human Rights

From Subject/Object Dichotomy to Topo-Logic

Ekaterina Yahyaoui Krivenko, University of Galway, Ireland

'Yahyaoui Krivenko's vision of the human rights philosophy is most needed today to overcome the limitations of human rights narrowly construed around the individualised experience of each human being. This reconceptualisation will be particularly useful when applied to issues such as environmental degradation and climate change. Since the planet is an ecosystem which is not human-centered, we need to initiate a decentering of human rights allowing us to embrace the complex interactions between all life forms and natural processes on Earth, and to situate the human experience among this new conception of "reality".'

Research Handbook on Law and Marxism

Edited by Paul O'Connell, SOAS University of London, UK and Umut Özsu, Carleton University, Canada

'Paul O'Connell and Umut Özsu have done a great service to all scholars of Marxism. They have assembled a comprehensive volume that includes contributions of both noted experts and brilliant young researchers and that fills a void in the existing literature. The outcome is a wonderful Handbook that is useful for both specialists and readers who approach Marxism and law for the first time. This book will serve as a guide in the field for many years to come.'

Teaching Intellectual Property Law

Strategy and Management

Edited by Sabine Jacques, University of East Anglia Law School, UK and Maastricht University, the Netherlands and Ruth Soetendorp, City University of London and Bournemouth University, UK

Integral to the commercial law field, Intellectual Property (IP) knowledge is central to culture, innovation, and enterprise. Looking forward to the new academic norm, Teaching Intellectual Property Law: Strategy and Management uses experience as well as innovative, interactive, practice-based methods for teaching IP to examine the various ways through which to move on from 'chalk and talk' methods.

Advanced Introduction to Cross-Border Insolvency Law

Reinhard Bork, University of Hamburg, Germany, Radboud University, the Netherlands and The University of Oxford, UK

'This latest addition to the very impressive oeuvre of Prof. Reinhard Bork in the field of (cross-border) insolvency law provides a comprehensive, clear and convincing treatise of issues relevant in a cross-border insolvency context. Bork addresses matters of jurisdiction, applicable law, recognition, cooperation and coordination, secondary proceedings, the position of foreign creditors in domestic proceedings and group insolvencies on the basis of both the European Insolvency Regulation and the UNCITRAL Model Law on Cross-Border Insolvency. It is a "must read" for everyone working in or studying insolvency law. I am convinced that it will find its way to and benefit practitioners and scholars around the globe.'

– P.M. (Michael) Veder, Radboud University, the Netherlands

Key Features:

- Uses numerous practical examples to illustrate key concepts
- Provides both in-depth information for advanced readers and accessible information for beginners in the field
- Succinctly evaluates case law and literature
- Follows a comparative law approach with a principle-based methodology in order to fully explore the most important issues

NEW IN PAPERBACK*After Meaning

The Sovereignty of Forms in International Law

Jean d'Aspremont, Sciences Po School of Law, France and University of Manchester, UK

'If you are the rare kind of jurist on the international scene disposed to engage in introspection so radical that none of your epistemic postulates will be safe, not even your most evident assumptions (that the words of a law-text carry a meaning at once ascertainably present and transmissible, for example), if you think you can withstand the affective cost of such profound intellectual self-transformation, then this title might be your rare kind of book.'

NEW IN PAPERBACK*Comparative Law of Obligations

Dário Moura Vicente, University of Lisbon, Portugal

'Comparative research is foundational for the understanding of foreign law and of one's own law, for stimulating legal reform, for harmonizing laws. It may tackle entire legal orders or single issues. Moura Vicente chooses a middle course; in a systematic way he deals with the law of obligations (contracts, torts, restitution) covering a wide range of both common law and civil law systems. His international expertise witnessed by many comparative law publications in Portuguese, is now accessible to a broader community.'

NEW IN PAPERBACK*Effective Communication for Lawyers

A Practical Guide

David Cowan, National University of Ireland Maynooth, Ireland and Université Catholique de Lyon, France

'If communication, as David suggests, is better understood as the activity of sharing, then I think we are all fortunate that he has shared with us his insights into effective communication in this invaluable book. As a practising lawyer, I would rank effective communication as the most valuable skill a lawyer can possess; one that we must continually develop. The Dialogue Box is an excellent practical tool which aids that development for everyone from the first year law student to the most seasoned practitioner.'
