Patenting Biotechnical Innovation

Eligibility, Ethics and Public Interest

Edited by Naomi Hawkins, University of Sheffield, UK

'This is an excellent and exciting collection edited by a highly respected scholar. It explores the always relevant and complex, and evolving, question of patenting biotechnological innovation and the public interest, and the extent to which the public interest is delivered. Dr Hawkins has led a team of the highest quality, with contributors from throughout the world exploring a valuable and innovative range of legal fields, perspectives, technologies and ethical questions. The conclusion, of the need for a multifaceted and coherent legal approach, is compelling.'

Transnational Organized Crime

Challenging International Law Principles on State Jurisdiction

Fulvia Staiano, Giustino Fortunato University, Italy

'This is a most timely book which showcases how the international law of jurisdiction has evolved in the context of transnational organized crime, in ways that often differ from other fields of the law. The author foregrounds the peculiar interpretations which are given to jurisdictional concepts in this particular field, and convincingly explains their rationales. This book invites us to think anew about the variegated forms which jurisdictional assertions take on, depending on the issue-area.'

Brand Protection and the Global Risk of Product Counterfeits

A Total Business Solution Approach

Edited by Jeremy M. Wilson, Michigan State University, US

'I wish I had this book when I first started in brand protection. Back then, I was in learning mode and constantly seeking sources to inform my strategy and approach. What I found was that there wasn't a lot of practical information readily available about how to combat the problem of illicit trade. With this volume, Jeremy and his cast of expert contributors have helped to fill this gap in practical knowledge in the field. They've laid out a very prescriptive approach about how to build a comprehensive, end-to-end solution—or "total business solution"—to brand infringement. This book provides an excellent foundation and reference for practitioners and decision makers about what it takes to protect your patients, customers, brands, and business from bad actors in the marketplace.'

ASEAN and the Reform of Investor-State Dispute Settlement

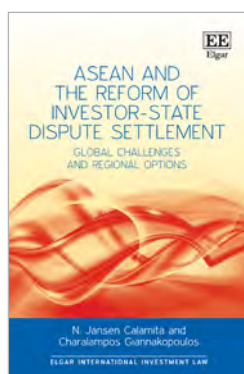

Global Challenges and Regional Options

N. Jansen Calamita and Charalampos Giannakopoulos, National University of Singapore, Singapore

The reform of Investor-State Dispute Settlement (ISDS) is a subject of ongoing debate in international institutions, yet an ASEAN perspective on the subject has been largely absent to date. This book addresses that gap by presenting, analysing and assessing ISDS reform from an ASEAN perspective, taking into account the experience, needs and concerns of ASEAN as a community and of its member states.

Ways out of the European Housing CrisisTenure Innovation and Diversification in Comparative PerspectiveEdited by Christoph U. Schmid, Bremen
University, Germany

'In the face of the current housing crisis in most EU countries, alternative and intermediate tenures below and between rent and ownership are in the focus of both researchers and policy makers. When searching for new models for better accommodating individual housing needs, it is highly recommended to examine previous experiences in other countries. The comparative legal groundwork laid in this book provides an excellent basis to rethink and complement the national portfolios of housing tenures. A powerful testimony to the Europeanisation of housing studies!'

Governing Law and Dispute Resolution in the Oil and Gas Industry

Edited by Eduardo G. Pereira, Siberian Federal University, Russia and The University of the West Indies, Tuuli Timonen, Nokia Technologies Oy, Finland and Elina Aleynikova, White & Case LLP, France

The oil and gas industry's wide international exposure and constantly changing landscape leave it particularly vulnerable to disputes. As this practical book demonstrates, the risks associated with disputes can be mitigated by parties utilising governing law and dispute resolution clauses in contractual agreements within the sector. Examining a global range of jurisdictions, the book offers clear guidance on the most appropriate choice of law and choice of dispute resolution forum for oil and gas contracts, analysing the key issues and defining the legal contours involved.

Business and Human Rights Law and Practice in Africa

Edited by Damilola S. Olawuyi, Hamad Bin Khalifa University, Qatar and Afe Babalola University, Nigeria and Oyeniya Abe, University of Huddersfield, UK and Afe Babalola University, Nigeria

'This is a solid and welcome intervention in the highly topical and fast-growing literature on business and human rights more generally, and as it concerns Africa. Professors Olawuyi and Abe have conceptualized and put together a very impressive, multidisciplinary, well-researched and well-written book. Readers from a wide variety of disciplines and backgrounds will surely find the book's conceptual depth and broad coverage as impressive, relevant and useful, as its practical utility in a variety of professional contexts.'

Promoting Religious Freedom in an Age of Intolerance

Barbara Ann Rieffer-Flanagan, Central Washington University, US

'In calling for a "coherent multilayered approach" to promote religious freedom, this thoughtful and comprehensive book of keen insight details the messy process of progress, offering comparative perspectives, policies and practices from around the world that can teach us all. Promoting Religious Freedom in an Age of Intolerance is that rare read of ready reference relevant to academics and activists alike.'

Urban Climate Resilience

The Role of Law

Edited by Angela van der Berg, Global Environmental Law Centre and University of Western Cape, South Africa and Jonathan Verschuuren, Tilburg University, the Netherlands

'Urban form, function and governance must urgently adapt in and for a new normal where disasters, crises and other socio-economic stressors are no longer temporary states of exception. Through its rich engagement with how laws that underlie, structure and enable resilient urban life are made, implemented and lived within an array of cities over the world, this volume constitutes an integral theoretical building block of urban adaptation and resilience.'

The Decentralization Formula

Thibault Schrepel, VU Amsterdam University, the Netherlands and Stanford University, US

'From Code of Hammurabi (1754 BC) to the Internet of Things and Artificial Intelligence this book links a deep understanding of law and technology, Blockchain and Antitrust. It offers a highly appreciated contribution to the Blockchain debate and practical use cases, which are very much needed in often theoretical discussions.'

Imagining Pathways for Global Cooperation

Edited by Katja Freistein, University of Duisburg-Essen, Germany, Bettina Mahlerl, University of Innsbruck, Austria, Sigrid Quack and Christine Unrau, University of Duisburg-Essen, Germany

'This exciting collection combines sharp theoretical analysis with a rich array of illuminating case studies to show the powerful role played by creative human imagination in shaping transformative processes of global cooperation. In departure from established understandings of global change as rigidly constrained by deterministic historical structures or rationalized institutional procedures, it makes a compelling case that processes of collective imagining – drawing together symbolic representations, emotions, and normative beliefs – can forge new cooperative pathways in confronting the challenges of 21st century world politics.'

Utopian Thinking in Law, Politics, Architecture and Technology

Hope in a Hopeless World

Edited by Bart van Klink, Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam, the Netherlands, Marta Soniewicka, Jagiellonian University, Poland and Leon van den Broeke, Theologische Universiteit Kampen and Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam, the Netherlands

'Stimulating and provocative, this interesting collection tackles utopia from diverse disciplinary, theoretical, and political angles. Drawing on secular and religious traditions, contributors demonstrate utopian thinking's enduring vitality and significance. With hope, faith, humanity, and the imagination, at its centre, this book explores what utopia can and cannot mean, be, and do.'
