POLITICAL SCIENCE & PUBLIC POLICY NEW TITLES, OCT – DEC 2022

Handbook of International Climate Finance

Edited by Axel Michaelowa, University of Zurich, Switzerland and Perspectives Climate Research, Germany and Anne-Kathrin Sacherer, Perspectives Climate Research, Germany

'Strategic investments are key for successful long term mitigation and adaptation policy. International climate finance is crucial to mobilize such investments in developing countries. The Handbook of International Climate Finance clearly lays out what is known about the impact of transfers from North to South and what needs to be improved. Every climate policy practitioner should have read it!'

Human Security and the Politics of Corporate Social Responsibility in China

Robert J. Hanlon, Thompson Rivers University and Royal Roads University, Canada

'Professor Hanlon has written a theoretically informed and empirically researched work that does what the title suggests: integrates the concepts of human security and corporate social responsibility in China. It is grounded in contemporary theoretical debates and demonstrates an impressive knowledge of Chinese practices in the realm of CSR and human rights. Highly recommended for students and scholars of Chinese economic development generally.'

Handbook on Academic Freedom

Edited by Richard Watermeyer, University of Bristol, Rille Raaper, University of Durham and Mark Olssen, University of Surrey, UK

'The Handbook on Academic Freedom paints an extremely disturbing picture of how, globally, academics' ability to act as critical public intellectuals has been radically undermined by universities' shift from a collegial to a managerial mode of governance. However, this is not simply a critique of the myriad ways in which academics' "performance" is now constantly audited and monitored in a way that limits their freedom to perform their proper function, but also a much-needed call to arms.'

EU Policymaking at a Crossroads

Negotiating the 2021–2027 Budget

Edited by Sybille Münch, Stiftung Universität Hildesheim and Leuphana University and Hubert Heinelt, Technische Universität Darmstadt, Germany

'Budget negotiations are often considered to be mostly rational and interest-based processes. Negotiations about the EU Multiannual Financial Framework (MFF) in particular tend to be analysed as classical domains of fierce intergovernmental bargaining between EU member states. This edited volume goes beyond the rationalist assumptions and zooms onto the "struggle over ideas". By introducing an interpretive approach to the study of policymaking, this excellent collection makes an essential contribution to research on EU integration. With its focus on meaning as manifest in persuasion and justification, the book provides insights into the politicization and polarization encountered in different policy areas at a point in time, when the EU was, once again, considered to be "at a crossroads".'

The State of Accountability in the Global South

Challenges and Responses

Edited by Sylvia I. Bergh, Erasmus University Rotterdam, the Netherlands and The Hague University of Applied Sciences, the Netherlands, Sony Pellissery, National Law School of India University, India and C. Sathyamala, Erasmus University Rotterdam, the Netherlands

'This insightful and comprehensive overview of diverse accountability efforts underscores persistent gaps between policy discourse, practices and outcomes. All routes to accountability turn out to be long routes. The rich case studies remind us that accountability – as both a big idea and practical goal – remains ambiguous, malleable and contested.'

Handbook on Governance and Development

Edited by Wil Hout, Erasmus University, Rotterdam, the Netherlands and Jane Hutchison, Murdoch University, Australia

'Governance is a perennial concern, development a "wicked problem". This Handbook is a valuable collection that explores and exposes the intricacies and interconnecting dynamics of governance and development to provide a nuanced and detailed understanding for students and scholars alike. The Handbook brings together many of the most acclaimed international scholars – genuinely from all corners of the world – to give critical insight into some of the world's most pressing problems and how states attempt to contain and govern them.'

Handbook of Critical Environmental Politics

Edited by Luigi Pellizzoni, University of Pisa, Emanuele Leonardi, University of Bologna and Viviana Asara, University of Ferrara, Italy

'This magnificent Handbook shows how 21st century politics occupies the interstices of everyday life – from the digitised molecule to the spouse tax; from geopower to post-work. The editors are relational thinkers, well aware that the environment, so-called, is not the same as 'nature'; rather, their title conveys an academic field subjecting itself to a reflexive process of decolonisation.'

Edited by Andreas Ladner, University of Lausanne and Fritz Sager, University of Bern, Switzerland

'This commendable collection is notable for a comprehensive exploration of most significant dimensions of politics and public administration. The dual focus of public administration in politics and the politics of public administration provides an effective structure for the book. The book will be an essential source for debates in this field and stimulate further research.'

Handbook on Peacekeeping and International Relations

Edited by Han Dorussen, University of Essex, UK

'Although peacekeeping has evolved its scope and depth during recent decades, research into its effectiveness and value for money is still scarce. This Handbook delivers an excellent overview of existing research as well as policy and operational developments in peacekeeping. It also identifies aspects in need of further research. The volume is a very useful tool for researchers, policy developers and practitioners. I highly recommend it for reading by anyone working in or with peacekeeping or solely interested in this subject.'

EU Industrial Policy in the Multipolar Economy

Edited by Jean-Christophe Defraigne, UCLouvain Saint-Louis Brussels University, Jan Wouters, Institute for International Law and Leuven Centre for Global Governance Studies, KU Leuven, Edoardo Traversa, UCLouvain, Belgium and Dimitri Zurstrassen, Sorbonne University, France and UCLouvain, Belgium

'A timely book on a fundamental theme for the future of European sovereignty, which brings together experts from the academic world and practitioners of industrial policy. The various case studies on key industries, the historical and legal perspectives and the comparative analysis with the experiences of the US and China provide a deep insight into the workings and challenges of EU industrial policy in this twenty-first century. A must-read for all those who feel concerned about Europe's strategic autonomy.'

Constructing Narratives for City Governance

Transnational Perspectives on Urban Narration

Edited by Alistair Cole, Hong Kong Baptist University, Hong Kong Special Administrative Region, China, Aisling Healy and Christelle Morel Journel, Université Jean Monnet, Saint-Etienne, France

Bringing together transnational perspectives on urban narration, this innovative book analyses how a combination of tales, images and discourses are used to brand, market and (re-)make cities, focusing on the actors behind this and the conflicts of power that arise in defining and governing city futures.

Elgar Encyclopedia of European Union Public Policy

Edited by Paolo Roberto Graziano, University of Padua, Italy and Jale Tosun, Heidelberg University, Germany

'Over the last three decades, the literature on European Union public policy has expanded massively. This impressive new Encyclopedia, masterfully edited by two leaders in the field, fills a gap in the market by distilling the most important elements into sixty-four bite-sized chunks, each carefully researched and fully referenced. Highly recommended.'

Assessing the Performance Advantage of Public-Private Partnerships

A Comparative Perspective

Edited by Stefan Verweij, University of Groningen, Ingmar van Meerkerk, Erasmus University Rotterdam, the Netherlands and Carter B. Casady, University College London, UK and George Mason University, US

'The global expansion of public-private partnership (PPP) infrastructure projects warrants careful performance assessment. This book addresses this timely topic and offers a highly useful framework for understanding the performance challenges of PPPs. Covering empirical experiences across three continents, this well-structured book is indispensable reading for PPP researchers and practitioners alike.'

The Politics of the Public Encounter

What Happens When Citizens Meet the State

Edited by Peter Hupe, KU Leuven Public Governance Institute, Belgium

'What happens when citizens meet the state? This excellent book provides a breadth of theoretically and empirically informed approaches to that question from leading scholars in the field. Drawing on insights from different kinds of frontline encounters, it is a reminder of why the street-level continues to be at the centre of public policy scholarship.'

Norms, Gender and Corruption

Understanding the Nexus

Edited by Ina Kubbe, Tel Aviv University, Israel and Ortrun Merkle, United Nations University – MERIT and Maastricht University, the Netherlands

'I highly recommend this book to anyone interested in the complex relationship between gender equality, corruption and good governance. It clearly shows that the inclusion of women in positions of power is no "quick fix" to reduced levels of corruption. The chapters give new insights on how social and political norms specify the room open for women to maneuver in society.'

Governing the EU in an Age of Division

Dalibor Rohac, American Enterprise Institute, US

'Dalibor Rohac isn't all misty-eyed when people talk about the European Union. Nor is he scornful, though, of the EU's real accomplishments and possibilities. This is a rare, hard-headed, and balanced look at an important part of the current geopolitical landscape. Read and learn.'

Globalisation, Policy and Shipping

Fordism, Post-Fordism and the European Union Maritime Sector

Evangelia Selkou, Project Manager, Athens, Greece and University of Plymouth, UK and Michael Roe, University of Plymouth, UK

'A series of fundamental questions stemming from the multiplex nature of policy-making, nation-states, governance, individual choice, and globalisation have increased in importance. Turning to the shipping world, however, we concede that much of this nature is overlooked despite its significance for human life. This book, as a collective output of two great minds in the field, can continue to keep these issues in the minds of those who are responsible for policy-making as was done by its previous edition.'

Identified, Tracked, and Profiled

The Politics of Resisting Facial Recognition Technology

Peter Dauvergne, University of British Columbia, Canada

'Facial recognition technologies (FRT) are spreading rapidly worldwide, and have become embedded in numerous everyday government and corporate practices. This widespread adoption has prompted extensive criticism, particularly from civil society groups concerned about human rights abuses and discriminatory impacts for marginalized and vulnerable communities. In Identified, Tracked, and Profiled, Peter Dauvergne provides a much-needed and thoroughly comprehensive overview of the regulatory issues and policy disputes around FRT. This book is essential reading for those interested in political contests over our changing digital landscape.'
