Moving Beyond Barriers

Prospects for EU Citizenship

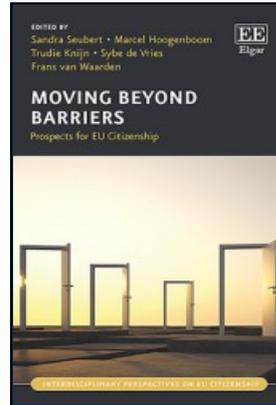

Interdisciplinary Perspectives on EU Citizenship series

Edited by Sandra Seubert, Department of Political Science, Goethe-University, Frankfurt, Germany, Marcel Hoogenboom, Trudie Knijn, Professor of Interdisciplinary Social Science, Sybe de Vries and Frans van Waarden, Utrecht University, the Netherlands

This book identifies, analyses and compares a variety of possible 'barriers' to the exercise of European citizenship and discusses ways to move beyond these barriers. It contributes in a multi-disciplinary way to a highly topical issue and offers new perspectives on EU citizenship in the sense that it critically analyses concepts of citizenship, the way EU citizenship is politically, legally and socially institutionalized, and elaborates alternatives to the current paths of realizing EU citizenship.

'The bEUcitizen project has made an important contribution to the field of EU citizenship studies. This wide-ranging book provides a taste of the different insights that the project has offered us about the different types of barriers to exercising European citizenship. Put together by an interdisciplinary and international team, the book is full of insights and should be widely consulted by scholars in the field.'

– Jo Shaw, Salvesen Chair of European Institutions, University of Edinburgh, UK
