Research Handbook on Secured Financing in Commercial Transactions

Research Handbooks in Financial Law series

Edited by Frederique Dahan, Chief Counsel, European Bank for Reconstruction and Development

This cutting-edge Handbook presents an overview of research and thinking in the field of secured financing, examining international standards and best practices of secured transactions law reform and its economic impact. Expert contributors explore the breadth and depth of the subject matter across diverse sectors, and illustrate the choices and trade-offs that policy makers face via a number of illuminating case studies. The result is a unique and wide-ranging examination of transactions reform across the world.

‘No single-volume publication brings together as many diverse and stimulating perspectives on secured financing law as does this Research Handbook. Its great strengths are asking hard questions and recognizing how difficult reform is. Contributors report on what works (and what doesn’t), drawing on evidence from legal systems less often studied in this context (e.g., Brazil, Morocco). I cannot imagine a researcher in the field who would not be intrigued by analysis of such issues as access of women to secured financing, constraints Shari’ah places on use of security devices, and reasons for Russia’s meandering path to modernization.’
