Research Handbook on the Law of the EU’s Internal Market

Research Handbooks in European Law series

Edited by Panos Koutrakos, Professor of European Union Law and Jean Monnet Professor of EU Law, City, University of London and Jukka Snell, Professor of European Union Law, the University of Turku, Finland and Swansea University, UK

While the internal market has been at the heart of the European project from the very beginning, it has rarely been the subject of sustained and comprehensive scholarly examination in its entirety. In the face of profound legal, political and policy pressures, this timely Research Handbook reflects on the cutting-edge issues, horizontal themes and the big questions which illuminate the shape of the internal market. It places the law and policy of the internal market within the context of the financial crisis and the existential questions this has raised for future European integration.

‘Even with the expanding reach of EU law, the law relating to the internal market continues to constitute a centrepiece of the EU legal order. There is an extensive literature on the economic freedoms in particular but surprisingly little exists in terms of an overall analysis. This book fills this gap in an eminent way and it will no doubt contribute to our understanding of not only the internal market but also the EU constitutional and legal order more generally.’
– Allan Rosas, European Court of Justice

‘Amid the wealth of literature on the Internal Market, this book – especially those chapters which focus on more recent developments – makes a very valuable contribution to the subject.’
– Common Market Law Review

‘It is very much the house style of Elgar to produce these very high quality publications which do ease the burden of scholarship greatly. We remain indebted to the publishers for their excellent European Law handbooks series at this monumental time of change for all.’
– The Barrister
