Research Handbook on Community Development

Edited by Rhonda Phillips, Purdue University, West Lafayette, Indiana, Eric Trevan, The Evergreen State College, Olympia, Washington and Patsy Kraeger, Georgia Southern University, Statesboro, Georgia, US

This timely Research Handbook offers new ways in which to navigate the diverse terrain of community development research. Chapters unpack the foundations and history of community development research and also look to its future, exploring innovative frameworks for conceptualizing community development. Comprehensive and unequivocally progressive, this is key reading for social and public policy researchers in need of an understanding of the current trends in community development research, as well as practitioners and policymakers working on urban, rural and regional development.

‘The book is a welcome addition to the field of community development. By disseminating key research findings from around the world it can help to improve outcomes for undeserved individuals and communities throughout the US and beyond.’

‘Phillips, Trevan, and Kraeger’s Research Handbook on Community Development is an invaluable new resource for students, faculty, and professionals committed to resident-led community transformation. It features deeply insightful articles exploring the most important challenges confronting those struggling to build more vibrant, equitable, resilient, and just neighborhoods, cities, and regions.’
– Kenneth Reardon, University of Massachusetts Boston, US
