Institutions and the Evolution of Capitalism

Implications of Evolutionary Economics

Edited by John Groenewegen, Delft University of Technology, The Netherlands and Jack Vromen, Associate Professor in the Philosophy of Economics, Erasmus University Rotterdam, The Netherlands

The combination of recent developments in theory with empirical studies will ensure that this book is essential reading for all those interested in evolutionary and institutional economics, political economy, technology policy, innovation and knowledge.

‘This book is an important contribution to the growing literature on evolutionary economics, concentrating, as it does, on the human factor in economic evolution and avoiding the unconvincing arguments based almost entirely on mere analogy with biological processes of much of the writing in this field.’
