Globalisation, Economic Transition and the Environment

Forging a Path to Sustainable Development

Edited by Philip Lawn, Flinders University, Australia

This book focuses on three critical issues pertaining to the broader goal of sustainable development – namely, the degenerative forces of globalisation, ecological sustainability requirements, and how best to negotiate the economic transition process.