

EU Regulation of E-Commerce

A Commentary

Elgar Commentaries series

Edited by Arno R. Lodder, Professor, Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam, the Netherlands and Andrew D. Murray, Professor, London School of Economics, UK

For the last twenty years the European Union has been extremely active in the field of e-commerce. This important new book addresses the key pieces of EU legislation in the field of e-commerce, including the E-commerce Directive, the Services Directive, the Consumer Directive, the General Data Protection Regulation, and the eID Regulation. The latest in the Elgar Commentaries series, EU Regulation of E-Commerce is the first book to apply this well-established format to a dynamic and increasingly significant area of law.

'Few of us think twice about buying something online, indeed many of us prefer, or even demand it – but few of us think deeply about the legal infrastructure required to make this convenience a reality. In this work Lodder & Murray have collected leading experts in e-commerce and created a systematic review of the fundamental EU regulation. This collection is a must read for anyone serious about online trade, cyberlawyers, and students of business and law – in any jurisdiction.'

'This systematic and useful commentary addresses the key pieces of EU legislation in the field of e-commerce, including the E-commerce Directive, the Services Directive, the Consumer Directive, the General Data Protection Regulation, and the eID Regulation. The commentary provides up-to-date analysis of decisions of the Court of Justice and the Commission, the latest directives and regulations in the field of e-commerce, and features detailed tables of cases and legislation. . . This is a concise guide, with a clear and accessible layout, to the regulations and issues relating to e-commerce, and will be useful for specialists, academics and advanced students alike.'
