Constitutionalising the External Dimensions of EU Migration Policies in Times of Crisis

Legality, Rule of Law and Fundamental Rights Reconsidered

Edited by Sergio Carrera, Professor, Migration Policy Centre (MPC), European University Institute (EUI), Florence, Italy, Senior Research Fellow and Head of Justice and Home Affairs Programme, CEPS, Visiting Professor, Paris School of International Affairs (PSIA), Sciences Po, France, Associate Professor, Faculty of Law in Maastricht University, the Netherlands and Honorary Industry Professor, School of Law, Queen Mary University of London, UK, Juan Santos Vara, Professor of Public International Law and European Law, Jean Monnet Chair in EU External Action, Director of the Master in European Studies and Coordinator of the European Joint Master’s in Strategic Border Management (Frontex), University of Salamanca, Spain and Tineke Strik, Associate Professor Migration Law, Centre for Migration Law, Radboud University, the Netherlands and member of the Parliamentary Assembly of the Council of Europe

This discerning book examines the external dimension EU migration and asylum policies in times of crisis. It thoroughly assesses patterns of co-operation in EU migration management with a focus on co-operation with the global south. A key resource for academics and students focussing on EU Law and migration more specifically, this book will also appeal to policy-makers, legal practitioners and international organisation representatives alike.

‘The well-written introduction lays the foundation of the whole volume, which proves to be thought-provoking and cutting-edge.’
– Kevin Fredy Hinterberger, Common Market Law Review

‘Whereas certain EU measures responding to the migration and asylum crisis, not least the EU–Turkey “Statement” of March 2016, took observers by surprise, these actions are more accurately understood as part of a well-established tendency in EU cooperation with third countries on migration control. This volume offers a thought-provoking account of this tendency, pointing to its conceptual link to “crisis labelling” and to the constitutional challenges it poses to the Union principles of democracy, the rule of law and fundamental rights’
– Jens Vedsted-Hansen, Aarhus University, Denmark

‘This highly topical book deals deeply with the fundamental issues raised by the external dimension of EU law in the field of migration. Combining historical and contemporary approaches, it proposes an original modelling of possible external co-operation in accordance with the rule of law. The authors are among the best specialists in these topics in Europe.’
– Jean-Sylvestre Bergé, Côte d’Azur University and University Institute France, France

‘The external dimensions of EU migration policies can result in serious violations of the human rights of migrants, out of reach of EU human rights watchdogs. If the EU is to retain its reputation as a rule-based human-rights-respecting polity, such external dimensions need proper oversight and sharp critical assessment. This book provides a first and often damning evaluation of this complex policy field, but also outlines ways in which the EU could adopt a more “comprehensive approach” to migration policies. An essential read’
– François Crépeau, McGill University, Canada

2019 336 pp Hardback 978 1 78897 247 5 £110.00 £99.00 £160.00 $144.00

How To Order

Online
www.e-elgar.com
Get up to 20% discount when you order online

By Email
UK/ROW: sales@e-elgar.co.uk
N/S America: elgarsales@e-elgar.com

By Phone
UK/ROW: +44 (0) 1243 843291
N/S America: (800) 390-3149

Connect With Us

Find us on Facebook
facebook.com/EdwardElgarPublishing

Follow us on Twitter
For news, views and offers @ElgarPublishing

Read our Blog
For news, views and debate from our authors and readers.
https://www.elgar.blog

For More Information

UK/ROW: info@e-elgar.co.uk
N/S America: elgarinfo@e-elgar.com

www.elgaronline.com
Edward Elgar Publishing Ltd. is registered in the UK at: The Lypiattts, 15 Lansdown Road, Cheltenham, Glos GL50 2JA. Registered number: 2041703