

Ethical Business Leadership in Troubling Times

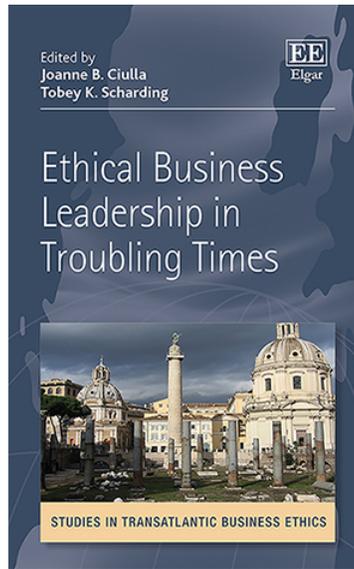

Studies in Transatlantic Business Ethics series

Edited by Joanne B. Ciulla, Professor, Department of Management and Global Business and Director, Institute for Ethical Leadership, Rutgers Business School–Newark and New Brunswick and Tobey K. Scharding, Visiting Assistant Professor, Department of Management and Global Business and Research Fellow, Institute for Ethical Leadership, Rutgers Business School–Newark and New Brunswick, US

Perhaps the fundamental question in CSR is: What are the responsibilities of businesses and business leadership to society? Moreover, do the responsibilities of business change in times of social and political turmoil? The chapters in this book tackle several aspects of these questions with chapters on business and politics, the environment, technology, and immigration; along with broader questions about leadership, governance, and the very nature of CSR.

'This book offers a series of fresh and critical contributions by the international crème de la crème in the fields of leadership, business ethics and CSR. It covers theoretical and practical approaches in a rich and probing exploration of the burning ethical issues facing business leaders in "troubling times". This sense of urgency has stimulated the authors to think innovatively about their field. That is why this book provides important incentives for the further development of the ethical thinking about leadership and business.'
