Private International Law
Contemporary Challenges and Continuing Relevance

Elgar Monographs in Private International Law

Edited by Franco Ferrari, Professor of Law and Director, Center for Transnational Litigation, Arbitration, and Commercial Law, New York University, New York, US and Diego P. Fernández Arroyo, Professor of Law, Director of the LLM in Transnational & Dispute Settlement, Sciences Po Law School, Paris, France

Is Private International Law (PIL) still fit to serve its function in today’s global environment? In light of some calls for radical changes to its very foundations, this timely book investigates the ability of PIL to handle contemporary and international problems, and inspires genuine debate on the future of the field.

‘Globalization has tremendously enhanced the number of cross-border transactions and, thereby, the significance of the conflict of laws. But is the localization method conceived in the 19th century for both jurisdiction and the applicable law still appropriate in the 21st? Can it serve purposes of global governance, give effect to universal values, allow for the implementation of national policies, provide legal certainty? The editors and authors, outstanding scholars in this area, provide thoughtful and interesting answers to these pressing questions.’
