

Field Guide to Intercultural Research

Edited by David S. A. Guttormsen, Associate Professor in Organisation and Management, Department of Business, Strategy and Political Sciences, USN School of Business, University of South-Eastern Norway, Norway, Jakob Luring, Professor in International Management, School of Business and Social Sciences, Aarhus University, Denmark and Malcolm Chapman, (retired) formerly Senior Lecturer, Centre for International Business, University of Leeds, UK

This informative Field Guide to Intercultural Research is specifically designed to be used in the field, guiding the reader away from pitfalls and towards best practice. It shares valuable fieldwork challenges and experiences, as well as insights into key methodological debates and practical recommendations relevant to both new and seasoned researchers.

'The Field Guide to Intercultural Research contains a plethora of practical, insightful, and wise advice gleaned from scholars who have spent their careers engaged in intercultural research projects. The book is an important contribution to the field and will greatly benefit doctoral students, fledgling scholars, and experienced intercultural scholars alike.'
