

Handbook of Entrepreneurship and Sustainable Development Research

Research Handbooks in Business and Management series

Edited by Paula Kyrö, former Professor, School of Business, Aalto University, Finland

Allying and expanding the diverse fields of entrepreneurship and sustainable development research is a modern day imperative. This Handbook paints an illuminating picture of the historic and current understanding of the bond between entrepreneurship and sustainable development. The authors explore the basic contradictions between the two fields and outline the transformative role entrepreneurship can play in achieving sustainable development. More than 50 expert researchers and their research communities from 16 countries across Europe, Africa, Australia, North America, and the Middle East provide original and informative contributions on a variety of issues, from women's empowerment to climate change and organic farmers to ecotourism.
